

Is Backache Crippling You?

Is that dull, nagging backache making it hard for you to get around? Are you lame, sore and tortured with aches, pains and stiffness? Then, you have gone some distance to your kidneys. A persistent backache is often a symptom of kidney trouble. You may have headaches, dizziness, and annoying bladder irritation, too. These symptoms, appearing early, are usually easily corrected. Begin now with Doan's Kidney Pills. Doctor says they will help you. They should help you. Ask your neighbor!

A New Hampshire Case

L. A. Day, King Lee, of New Hampshire, suffered with sharp, cutting pain in his back and loins, which he could not bear. He could just about do any work, but the pangs felt dull and constant. The symptoms were frequent, and were painful. He heard of Doan's Kidney Pills, and took them. They completely rid me of the trouble.

A TRUE RAT STORY

Auburnton, Tenn., 6-22-12.

Dear Sirs: Mr. Robert T. Donnell of Auburnton, Tenn., writes us that on the other day he wanted to catch a rat in his house, so he set a trap. He caught a fat, five-year-old rat. And he put some paste on the trap, and when the rat came along, he ate the paste and got stuck in the trap. And he sat there until he was freed, and when he was freed, he crawled over the sticked boy's head, and then he carried him out to safety and revived him.

Respectfully, KENNEDY BROTHERS.

Parrot Got Busy.

Johnny played with his little friends next door, where they had a lovely time.

When another wanted Johnny she would telephone and the message would be shouted out the back door, "Johnny, your mother wants you." "Where?" the boy would ask.

One day, however, the father arrived, the boy reacted back to his own house and reported to mother. Imagine his surprise when she said, "I didn't call."

The parrot had learned the combination, "Johnny, your mother wants you," and sent the boy home.

MOUNTAIN MEADOW MASSACRE

ONE of the little known chapters of American history—an episode which is cloaked in mystery even to-day—is the story of the massacre of a party of emigrants, which took place near Mountain Meadow, in Utah, in September, 1857, and for participation in which John D. Lee was executed some twenty years later.

About 1850, a number of men, women and children were crossing the continent at the time, on their way from Missouri to the coast, and stopped in Mountain Meadow, about 300 miles west of Salt Lake City, to rest and to recruit the members of the party to resume their journey up to this point. Familiar with the dangers of cross-country travel, they arranged their wagons in a circle, with the women and children inside, and the men taking turns at watching for signs of a possible attack. Two days passed without any indication of trouble, and the emigrants were on the point of setting out on the next portion of their journey when a party of apparently hostile Indians had made their appearance at a number of points nearby.

Little by little the enemy's scouts crept closer, until finally the Indians forced the issy by shooting up his hand as a signal for a peaceful conference, the sharp crack of a rifle shot made it plain that the Indians were intent upon an attack rather than upon the exchange of goods.

Although an hour of the encounter had passed, however, before it became plain that half of the hostile forces were not Indians but whites—men who had been sent to the redskins in order to effect an extermination of the visitors who, they feared, would undermine their influence in this section of the country. The massacre of Indians, however, and a constant stream of ammunition supplied by the whites, was almost too much for the little band of emigrants, but having been careful to pitch their camp in a spot which commanded the road, they had a good stand by their guns and resisted the storm for four full days and nights. Finally, on the fifth day, they left the shelter of their wagons under the promise of protection by John D. Lee, Mormon church in his confession of treachery, claiming that Brigham Young had given him authority to kill the Indians, and that he had no reward reserved to his relatives through the action of the government.

When, after an investigation of the matter, officials of the War Department found Lee was arrested and charged with murder, he implicated a number of the highest officials of the Mormon church in his confession of treachery, claiming that Brigham Young had fully foreseen the outcome of the intended massacre, and had taken no steps to prevent it.

"Governor Young told me," declared Lee, "that if I would furnish the information concerning the possibility of the affair, it would be a feather in my cap some day, and that I should achieve celestial salvation, but he added that the man who shrank from such responsibility of this kind would be certain to be consigned to Hades forever."

Despite his confession, and the manifest evidence that he was far from being alone in the laying of the blame for the massacre, Lee was condemned to death on March 23, 1857, twenty years later. Government investigators developed clearly the fact that the white Indians had only a catalyst in the whole matter, but when attempting to place the blame elsewhere, they became frustrated and were frustrated at every turn by the far-flung machinery of the Mormon church.

The identification of the real leaders in the Mountain Meadow massacre has never been definitely decided, and consequently historians state that Lee would never have been convicted had it not been for the fact that he had been extracted from the Mormon church by his former having instructed his adherents to facilitate the progress of this prosecution, for reasons best known to themselves.

WHO WAS JAMES ORD?

THE public life of the man whose name was concealed under the pseudonym of "James Ord" commenced when this strange character was sent to Georgetown College, in Washington, with the statement by his guardian, Captain Ord, that "you had your rights in England you would be some time here, we are now sending you to America to receive a good education, which would cause those who have brought you to do you harm."

In order to remain close by his charge, the elder Ord secured a position in the office of the Postmaster General, and it was noted that the almoner, which he was able to make to the boy who passed as his nephew, was out of all proportion to his salary as a master mechanic. Young Ord, however, the life of his guardian, though this seemed to be a hazy recollection of a tall and stately woman, sad-faced and dressed in the most expensive of fabrics, who had visited him at intervals during his childhood. In later years, however, he had spent the major portion of his time traveling with his

DAVID O'LEARY AND W. W. COLTON OF PASADENA POST RESCUE VICTIM OF EXPLOSION.

There came a deafening roar, and out of the building gushed the strong odor of ammonia gas. David J. O'Leary, adjt. and W. W. Colton, of the Pasadena, Calif., Post No. 13, American Legion, passed through the dark toward the post clubrooms.

"O'Leary cried,

"O'Leary cried." The boy scouts are holding a meeting up there. And the caretakers must be in there, too." The men ran into the building, through the smoke and amid amazement, one search of the clubrooms, the other upstairs to the clubrooms, where the Pasadena boy scouts were holding their meeting. But the boy scouts, acting with the greatest coolness, had already made their escape. They are the result of their training, already were marching out of the building—and carrying, four of them detailed for the work, a crippled boy scout who had been overcome. They had gathered around him, put him over the stricken boy's head, and then carried him out to safety and revived him.

Colton and O'Leary, staggering, groping their way, searched for and found Mrs. Maude Fishburn and Mrs. A. Hare, the caretakers, who had been sleeping in their beds in the building. They carried both women to safety. First aid treatment was given them. The two Legionnaires also were resuscitated.

The post's cubscouts are over an ice plant, and it was an ammonia tank in the plant which exploded. It was determined that it had not been for the bravery of O'Leary and Colton the two women would have met death.

AUXILIARY WOMEN SET PAC

Under Leadership of Mrs. Rose Cravens, Missouri and Kansas Auxiliaries Convene Benefit.

"Let's go!" the rallying cry of the American Legion, went dying over Kansas recently when it was announced that the Auxiliary of the American Legion of Kansas and Missouri would take over the administration of Kansas City's new $500,000 speedway, sharing in the receipts. Mrs. Rose Cravens, president of the Auxiliary, sounded the cry to all the members of the auxiliary in her state, and began immediately organizing flying squadrons of auxiliaries in every city and town of Kansas.

"We're working for the disabled veterans, and their dependents, and we're working for the welfare of the people," Mrs. Cravens told the auxiliary workers, explaining that the two American Legion posts would realize $60,000 from the deal.

The women responded with enthusiasm. Under Mrs. Cravens' leadership they conducted a campaign as strenuous as any held in war days. They gave of their time and energies to the welfare of the disabled veterans and American Legion officials declared the women of Kansas and Missouri outshone the men in their activity.

Wildwood (N. J.) Legion Post Establishes Retreat for the Convalescent Ex-Servicemen Men.

THREE blights of homelessness and pain and weakness that often is the lot of the veteran as he leaves the operating room of a government hospital, and before he can go to his home, is being made the object of pleasure and real joy by Bryan Napoleon Crockett, post commander of the American Legion at Wildwood, N. J. The post has established what is known as Blessed Haven, a retreat for the convalescent ex-service men. It is the only institution of its kind in the country.

Success has given Blessed Haven a home, and so thoroughly has it become that all that its name implies, that other Legion posts are coming to the rescue to establish homes of convalescents. It is to be hoped that there will be more in the more thickly populated sections in order to bring the boys as close to their homes as possible.

WESTERN CANADA

for Wheat Growing, Cattle Raising and a Happy Home of Your Own

Proven Farmers and Homesteaders will tell you the desirability of settling in their farms and ranches and securing for themselves homes in a country that, while yet in its infancy, has made itself famous by the quality of the grain it produces and by the excellence of its live stock.

THERE ARE MILLIONS OF ACRES of the highest class of land available for the whole object in life to become his own landowner and with the opportunity which has given wealth to the thousands of Americans who, having started on Western Canada farms with less than $100, have since become millionaires.

Land is cheap and homesteads further from lines of railway are free to settlers.

Upon these lands can be grown the best of wheat, barley, oats, corn and sunflowers.

Cattle winter in mud without getting sickly, and eighty percent of the cattle sold annually are sent to market in excellent condition.

Taxes are paid only on land used for agriculture, and the social condition, good neighbors, abundant markets and shipping facilities are all factors in the success of farm operators in Manitoba.

the finest series of sessions ever enjoyed at an Association meeting, including the State Conference of the New England Association.

At the regular session the Moderator, Rev. Orville J. Gupfill, our local minister, carried the business forward with dispatch, appointing a nominating committee of which Rev. John Cowan of Bristol was chairman.

The speakers were Rev. J. C. Harkwic, Rev. Oscar L. Peterson was chairman. Mr. Harkwig was generally commended to the churchmen.

The following resolution respecting the proposed amendment of the Constitution was unanimously approved by the session:

WHEREAS, unspeakable atrocities disgracing civilization have for generations, and continue to be visited upon the minorities of the Near East by the Turk and

Yea, there is danger of these measures and outrages being continued and multiplied in Constantinople and elsewhere, and that no action is taken to prevent it;

Be it resolved that we hold it true that to end such atrocities America must enter the war and give her treasure in money and life,

Be it further resolved; that in the name of God and humanity, we urge on our government to use every possible means to end this harrowing situation and render impossible its continuance.

Acknowledgment of local courtesy was made by the adoption of the following graceful resolution: "The Annual Missionary Convention in appreciation of the delightful hospitality of the Meredith Church in its splendid provision for the comfort and convenience of the members and their wives with the members of this church in the marked prosperity which has characterized the town and the members of that church, and their work and their efficient working plant."

North Church

RALLY DAY REMARKABLY SUCCESSFUL

Largest Attendance at Sunday School
Ever Recorded at This Church

Early day at North Church is always an occasion of great interest and enthusiasm. It never was more so than last Sunday nor with greater cause. The attendance was larger than ever before, and the service exceeded even the splendid mark of Go-to-Sunday-School Day, and beating all former Rally Day records by fifty percent. The school, while suffering an all school day, shortening the services to address the fact of another year better manner than in many years.

When folks came to Church they found the hall filled with people, the exhibit which engaged the attention of everybody passing, both before and after service.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred and Bergner and following in order the tables were filled with most interesting exhibits by the Primary Department, Workbooks, Honor Work, and all the various material in use in the School constituted a fine display, and all alike commendable to the pupils and the teachers. To the uninitiated it was as interesting as to those who were as earnest and impatient desire for a more adequate education.

The tables will be kept open over Sunday evenings to give all who have an opportunity to see.

Each service had its own distinction in the program. The Morning Worship, besides the Pastor's earnest sermon on the "Teaching Ministry of the Church," included the singing of the hymns of Mrs. F. S. Coates, and at the close of the service the brief, but most impressive service of the installation of the new officers of the Sunday School Church.

Mr. Claude M. Calvert, Mayor of Meredith, and one of the best known citizens of the municipality where he lives, made a short speech to our office.

In his first speech he had the honor of presenting the new banner of the Church League met in conference with the Pastors, which was adopted.

The banner in accordance of all the services of the day, the promise of the persons of those young people made that day.

Altogether a most auspicious beginning was made for a year of helpfulness and growth.

The students receiving diplomas were as follows:

From the Cradle Roll, William Bush, Ken Ricard, Bruce Bush, Helen Clark, Margaret Clark, Edna Cope, Helen Cope, Helen Jacobs, Freda Perkins, Helen Piper, Marion Moulton, Lloyd Sprague.

For the Beginners, Dorothy Baker, Harold Cope, Nathaniel M. Gupfill, Ada Jacobs, John Lovett, Delmar Mills, Alice Hobart, Charlotte Sanborn, Eleanor Young.

From the Primary, Waynes Baker, Silvonne Gagnon, Lynn Baker, Barbara Johnson, Marion Young.

From the Juniors, Sedley Bartlett, Irene Gagnon, Viola Philbrook, and Eddie Young.

Those promoted with honor to a higher grade:

In the Intermediate Department, Opie, Freda Gagnon, Charles Bradford, Dorothy Loyd, Chas. Piper, Louise Rand, Alton Weeks, Paul Weeks, Lawrence Wilkins, Shirley Young.

In the Junior, Julia Avery, Florence Blaschke, Elizabeth Bryant, Rose George, Helen Gagnon, Charles H. Doris Maloney, Robert Driscoll, Edward G. Rand, Marion Sheldon, Donald J. Steele, Norman T. Tamm.

A TWICE-TOLD TALE

One of Interest to Our Readers

Good news bears repeating, and what is news is often after a long lapse of time, even if we hesitate to believe it at first hearing, we feel secure in accepting it's truth now. The following extract from a smooth man is confirmed after many years.

Wm. Sedgell, 203 N. Main street, Plymouth, N. H., says: "I fear for years past I have suffered with pains and sores in the small of my back. I couldn't bear over without taking a long time to get rid of them. I have tried all kinds of ointments and plasters and such cures before my time. The kidney secretions were bad and the glands were enlarged. I purchased some. My kidneys were greatly improved and finally all the trouble was gone. I am now in full health again."

On November 25, 1920, Mr. Sedgell was still having the same hindrance to his health. He had a visit from Dr. Dean Kidney of Franklin and purchased some. My kidneys were greatly improved and finally all the trouble was gone. I am now in full health again."

Rumrunner Blames Black Cat for Trouble

Morris Medenick of Mattapan, Mass., alleged bootlegger, who was fined $1,000 and given 120 days in the county court, was a rumrunning bootlegger from Boston and who had some difficulty to secure release on $300 bail for the United States court, blames all his trouble on a black cat which ran across his path. He said he had been leaving Boston with the cargo of hooch. He says he was hoodlum and should have gone back and started over again, and thought of doing so, but finally didn't. It had been, he believes he would have landed the liquor in Salmon Falls. His destination was Mattapan.

Dover Man Heads Colonial Wars Society

The New Hampshire Society of Colonial Wars held its 29th annual field day in Dover. Reports showed the organization to be financially strong. Various places in that section, which figure in the colonial history of New England, were visited. It was voted to commemorate, by a bronze tablet, the battle which took place, in what is now Franklin square, 1676, during which several Indians wanted by Massachusetts authorities, were taken prisoners.

The society voted to participate with Dover and Portsmouth in the 300th anniversary of the first permanent settlement of New Hampshire.

State Will Settle Orchard Damages

Although definite figures are not available it is stated by State Fish and Game Commissioner Mott L. Bartlett, that the damage to fruit orchards of the state by partridges in the past year was over $100,000, most of which damage can be put to the state to fruit growers in Merrimack county.

Agents of the department inspected the various orchards in the state which were damaged by partridges and reported their findings to the department.

The state is liable for the damage by the birds due to the fact that the law provides a license to shoot to protect its orchards against the ravages of birds in the closed season, but the problem is now being investigated by President George M. Putnam of the state forest commission and Commissioner Bartlett, and it is not unlikely that a solution will be presented to the next legislature.

Find No Right To Give Tag Day

The Manchester highway commission informed Harry Trudell that the members had decided that the granting of permits to strikers to sell tags did not come under their jurisdiction. This action comes as a result of several months' consideration and went forth in regard to the matter. The mayor was told that the commission neither refused nor granted permission. Surveyor E. R. Conant said that the decision was entirely in the hands of the commission.

Assures Game Haven in N. H.

A public hearing was held at City Hall in Nashua, N. H., on Sept. 1, during which a tract of land to be leased by its owners as a game preserve or sanctuary along the banks of the Nashua river.

The manager was in charge of Edwin C. Lear of Concord, superintendent of the warden service department of fish and game. There was no intention to give the hearing to the Governor and council. Authorization for the project is practically assured.

No date has been set for the hearing.

The land is available for the sanctuary comprises more than 1000 acres. The Lone Pine Hunters' Club of Nashua has been instrumental in the formation and operation and propagation of small game birds and animals. Mr. Theriault, owner and proprietor of the Riverine, the club, constitutes a part of the tract, has been active in the detail work involved.

It is planned to have a steel warden station built on the property to guard and to prevent poaching which has been stock by the fish and game commission.

Jail Hampton Man On Fraud Charge

Fred W. Pace of Hampton was arraigned in the municipal court on charges of attempting to obtain a false discharge from the service. He pleaded guilty and is being held on his personal recognizance for appearance in the October term of Superior Court. He was held by the police that Pace read an advertisement in a Boston paper stating that Mrs. Anna O. Lester of Boston had lost a bag between Brookline and Pembroke, Mass. The bag contained $1000 in cash, a small diamond pin and a gold pin. Thinking it would be easy money obtained the $100 reward for the recovery of the bag. Mr. Pace sent a letter to Mrs. Lester stating that he had recovered the bag on route to Boston. Mrs. Lester suspicious of Pace's letter, put the police on the case and Pace was arrested. After some questioning, Mr. Pace confessed that he'd not find the bag that he was attempting to obtain money under false pretenses.

Potatoes Hit By Blight Should not be Dug

Potato growers whose crop has been hit by blight are advised by Dr. J. C. Gandy, of the Bureau of plant experiment station to allow the tubers to remain in the ground as long as possible before digging. This will prevent tuber from growing more, if it has not already been infected; but it will make it possible to keep the crop as a whole cleaner. If dug at once, the potato may hardy show the presence of the disease; but the blight is present in all the tubers in a little while the blight will then more readily infect the remaining sound potatoes. Keeping the crop limited to sound parts of the field is practically assured through the possibility of storage. Infected potatoes do not and placed upon the market are believed to be largely responsible for the present market price; and the market can sell sound potatoes later in the season, the seller should securely a better profit.

While potatoes are dug from a field badly infected with late blight they should be kept as cool as possible. Drying in hand plaster or air-staked bins does not protect the sound tubers.

Urges Union of Denominations

Closer union of all churches was urged at the Universalist state convention in Concord by the Rev. Horace Blake Williams, Methodist minister of Manchester.

Dr. Williams declared: "The union must be broad enough to bridge between Protestants and Catholics, a union which our hearts to do with the Roman Catholic."

Dr. Williams' theme was "The Spiritual Possibilities of America." He said: "It is hardly necessary to call attention to that which is suggested as a by-product of my subject, namely the religious union of America."

Officials of the B. E. R. and R. Knight, inc., disclaim any discrimination against former employees among Pawtucket laborers. Those who were not hired were those for whom jobs could not be provided by inability of the company to start all its machines it once.

Opponents against the rebuilding of the dams at the Langewald and Roberts Funds in Willimantic, Mass., which were swept away July 17, causing heavy property loss to the residents of the surrounding section of Clinton, have been supported by property owners of the district with the commission, who have set a date for a hearing.

Earl Albin, a student in the freshman class at the Boston University School of Engineering, traveled the summer vacation from Columbus, O., to Seattle, Wash., and from there to Boston, covering a distance of 7250 miles and spending only $8. He has been saving about $40 a day on his trip, making his way by automobile and train.

George W. Carey, 65, of Lynn, was sentenced to the State Farm by Judge Flynn in Superior Court. He was given a suspended sentence of 15 years, to be served in the Salem jail, asked why he wanted to go there he replied: "All the officers there are the boys I used to go to school with, and they always treat me well."

"Second place, there must be a closer union among us. The day is coming when all religious denominations can go their own way, doing its own work. Therefore, to advance the Kingdom we must work together. There must be union among us. The union must be broad enough to bridge between Protestants and Roman Catholics. A union that unites us together with the Roman Cath-

I believe that I speak the truth when I say that the results of our spiritual production are not as fruitful as the result of our physical production.

"First, belief in the church must be re-established. I believe by the time it comes under come religious control."

"It is said that the Kingdom of God is righteousness, peace and joy in the Holy Ghost. All my eyes direct me to the Kingdom, today, instead of being righteous, peace and joy in the Holy Ghost, is hatred, intolerance and misery."

"Second place, there must be a closer union among us. The day is coming when all religious denominations can go their own way, doing its own work. Therefore, to advance the Kingdom we must work together. There must be union among us. The union must be broad enough to bridge between Protestants and Roman Catholics. A union that unites us together with the Roman Cath-

West Center Harbor

Mr. T. H. Vrdenbrug from Medford Hillside, Mass., is at his camp "The Oak" for a few days.

Week end guests at Camp Waukon were Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Woodward and son from Roslindale, Mass., and Miss Elizabeth Hawkins from Fitchburg, Mass.

It was a gay day on Lake Winona Sunday, October 1, when about one hundred and fifty Anchor Club members gathered at the site of their new club house, The Anchorage, to inspect the new building. It was not the dedication of the building, for that is coming. The program was opened by the officers of the club and selections by the Laconia Masonic Band, who very kindly gave a concert for the afternoon. Photographers from Boston and Lowell were on the grounds and took several pictures of the building and the members in a group on the large piazza. There were representatives of the order from Lowell, Boston, Fitchburg, and other places. All were entertained with new building and surroundings, and anticipated spending very many happy hours there when they departed from the Winona station at 5:45 p.m., they gave three hearty cheers for J. W. Smith, the general contractor, and were grateful for them to have the club house by donating the land on which the building stands.

Glenwood

Don't grow old with an old range

COOKING three meals a day, 1000 meals a year, you actually spend three solid months of working days at your range from January to January.

Life is too short to waste your time over an old stove that you can't depend on and that has to be coaxed to do its work.

Isn't it about time you traded your old range for an efficient Modern Glenwood? Ask us for particulars.

Glenwood Ranges "Make Cooking Easy."

Where Extra Service is Demanded Firestone Cords Predominate

WHEREVER the excavations and tests of tires are most severe—there you will find Firestone Cords in universal use.

The hard jobs seek Firestone. And so well has Firestone responded under difficult conditions—so consistently has mileage mounted to totals impossible to obtain from ordinary tires that today Most Miles per Dollar is the buying slogan of thinking motorists everywhere.

The blending and tempering of rubber, gum-dipped cord construction, air-bag cure—all these mileage methods have been developed by men whose life work is the production of constantly increasing tire values for the public.

Users in this vicinity verify Firestone reputation, and report almost daily some new Firestone record of extra distance travelled.

Don't be satisfied to buy tires—buy values—the longest mileage at the lowest price consistent with such reliable performance.

Make Most Miles per Dollar your principle of tire economy — choose your next tire on that basis.

MEREDITH'S PAST

his family. His widow and son Chas. now occupy it. When I first knew him he was a young man. He had a wife and two sons. Now he is old. When he was very small there was but one road to Center Harbor, and that went over Cass Hill, which is high, long, narrow and rocky. He used to take the hill with his horses and a loaded coach and his brakes would not hold. He would stop at the Congregational Church for a while. The house has been used as a parsonage for a long time.

Coming down the street, we have the old home of Captain Jos. Lang, for years one of Meredith's ideal men. Like every other he honored and loved by the people. He raised and commanded a company in the 12th N. H. Regiment in the Civil War. This house was built before the war and in the village has passed through various hands, and is now the property of Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Deering.

The next house is owned by a new comer. In the old times Joe Drew lived there.

Next is the old Crockett house, so called. This was an old leased house fifty years ago, as Joe Precent and family lived there and I was a great friend with them. They were called with (Nicknamed) Tinkum. If the history of this house could be written up it would be interesting.

Next is a small shingle roof building situated on the bank wall below the Crockett house. This was in the old days a harness shop for Jim Duncanson. It is a comfortable time as a small boy, stringing buckles on a leather strap. One afternoon I was there and we heard an officer. But I don't know what he was—a man in the clutch of Frank Woodman. Woodman was a large, husky scowling fellow. He was carrying something that Woodman resented and he was trying to make the old man apologize by whaling him with one of those long riding switches. He was whaling him unmercifully and once in a while he would stop and ask for an ax for an apology. The old man would say, "No, no, my boy." Then Woodman would go at it again. This went on for some time when Jim Precent came along and stopped the old man go. This he did and the old fellow was not long getting to Rainsford island where he soon had Woodman whom Judge Dow paid $1000 to him. He paid and later it was made up to him by who he had enjoyed the night. We will not tell the name of the man who got the kick, but it safe to say that most of the men in town were glad that he got it.

Next we come to the block now occupied by Nathan Morrison as a business place, while the other side is rented as a first story. In the day B. Plaine had his one side at a grocery store and town agency, while the other side was a boot and shoe store, kept by the third hand. The fourth was a leased room in the second story, while the third story was the home of the Gooden implants.

Next is the hotel, run by Dan Bedes, a man who thought much of himself. He was old and lame, but he did not let it stop him. He had a two-story house with an ell. The main house was a front room and entry wide and on the first floor had a parlor, entered from the front room. Across these rooms at the rear was the dining room. Back of this was the kitchen and with it a back room which he used as a dance room. There he learned to dance. A man by the name of Gilman was our teacher.

He was a tall, thin, gaunt, gaunt man and when he was playing the violin he beat out the time with one of these long legs crossed over the other. He was a good dancer and could hold his position. Put him back thus and show him to me and I could call him a good dancer. Carl and Anna and Hannah Robinson used to dance. They weighed together about 600 lbs. It was a wonder to me how they could move so easily and gracefully over the floor.

Back still further in this yard is the garage and barn. In those days we had a stage coach and coming from Conway each day. These stages had six horses hitched to a Conestoga wagon. The coach was driven with Charles Sanford, Henry Sturtevant and Peter Hines were drivers. Uncle Joe Avery and Emery Dow took care of the horses. I will not close this story without special mention of Peter Hines. He was one of the very best drivers. He had a horse team that ever took the lines west. He never lost his head. If his horses were buried in snow he knew just how to get them out unharmed; if it was hot and dry he knew just how to cool them to make time without killing his horses. He was full of stories and every man who knew him wanted to hear them. When he was very small there was but one road to Center Harbor, and that went over Cass Hill, which is high, long, narrow and rocky. He used to take the hill with his horses and a loaded coach and his brakes would not hold. He would stop at the Congregational Church for a while. The house has been used as a parsonage for a long time.

Uncle Joe Avery was a large, powerful man and he had some trouble with Frank Hoyt, a bad man from the city. They had a fight in the same time. Town Meetings days were bad days for Meredith. Rum was plenty and most would fight and Hoyt took Uncle Joe Avery and his cronies with him. They got into a hotel quite drunk and found Uncle Joe in bed. He stepped up to pace him one and when he came within reach Uncle Joe struck his back hand and Hoyt got up and hit Uncle Joe. Uncle Joe picked him up and gave him to Joe Chapman, who was police officer and was looking for him. They put him in his wagon and took him home. Next morning he was back again with two hounds dogs and two shot guns in his wagon. He was a great fighter and thus ended what promised to be murder.

This letter will have to do for this time.

In my next letter we will begin after the fire that burned the old hotel and go on up Plymouth street a little ways.

Doors in houses leave the sides of the house exposed. And there is much poetry in paving. If the road can sit under a tree at a sufficient distance from the plowman to make the latter's language to the mule inaudible.—Post.
